Management Discussion of Performance

Results of Operations

The NEI Canadian Equity RS Fund's Series A units returned 11.5% for the six months ended March 31, 2022 compared with a return of 10.5% for the benchmark explained below.

Unlike the benchmark return, the Fund's returns are after the deduction of fees and expenses paid by the Fund. Performance differences between series of units are mainly attributable to management fees charged to each series. Refer to the Past Performance section for the details of returns by series.

The benchmark for this Fund is the S&P/TSX Composite TR Index.

The Fund's net asset value increased by 5.11% during the period, from $780,428,286 as at September 30, 2021 to $820,310,556 as at March 31, 2022. This change in net assets is attributed to net unitholder activity of -$53,967,519 and $93,849,789 to investment operations, including market appreciation (depreciation), income and expenses.

Factors That Have Affected Performance

The Canadian Equity RS Fund outperformed the benchmark S&P/TSX Composite Index total return for the six-month period ending March 31, 2022.

The resource-weighted Canadian market has outperformed its global counterparts so far this year as commodity prices have soared in response to geopolitical tensions. The Fund's commodity exposure has contributed to positive returns (but the lack of exposure to precious metals detracted on a relative basis). In response to rising interest rate risk, high growth companies have seen significant margin compression. The lack of exposure to Shopify, which lost 50% of its market value over the period, was the largest source of relative outperformance. Stronger stock specific performance made energy and industrials holdings the next largest source of outperformance.

Among the Fund's top contributing investments were Canadian Natural Resources Inc., Suncor Energy Inc. and Teck Resources Ltd. The largest detractors were Telus International Inc., CCL Industries Inc. and Open Text Corp.

Recent Developments

The portfolio sub-advisor continues to see increasing concerns over the resilience of the economy and whether rising input costs will translate into unsustainable levels of inflation. They believe the Fund is well positioned in two ways. Firstly, while they have been trimming direct commodity exposure, they believe Materials weight can provide a hedge against the investments that may be vulnerable to inflation. Secondly, other investments in the Fund have an ability to pass on costs to the end customer, and therefore should generally be more resilient to the risks of inflation.

While technology and high growth stocks have been weak, they still struggle to find value in some of the highest growth stocks in the index. However, they have been finding value in the more modest growth technology companies as described above. Going forward, they continue to be guided by seven tests when evaluating potential investments, placing a high degree of emphasis on strong financial performance including profitable growth and good capital generation.

Early in the fourth quarter of 2021, they initiated a position in UnitedHealth Group Inc. (UNH), a diversified health care company in the United States. UNH's largest division, which provides over 50% of the company's operating profit before tax, provides services such as health benefits plans for employers as well as health care coverage for individuals 50 and over primarily in the United States. The company has grown its revenues and earnings per share at 10-year compounded annual growth rates of approximately 11% and 14%, respectively. This impressive record has also been obtained while keeping a conservative balance sheet. The valuation of UNH is higher than the Fund average, but they believe the quality of the business and potential growth offset this.

They exited Rogers Communications Inc. early in the fourth quarter following the abrupt departure of the company's CFO (but before the departure of the Chairman and then the CEO). The management risks apparent at the time compounded other existing concerns including a stretched balance sheet and M&A integration risks. They also exited Stantec Inc. as they trimmed cyclicals and added to more defensive opportunities.

(1) All per unit figures presented in 2022 are referenced to net assets determined in accordance with IFRS and are derived from the Fund's semi-annual financial statements for the period ended March 31, 2022.

(2) Net assets and distributions are based on the actual number of units outstanding at the relevant time. The increase/decrease from operations is based on the weighted average number of units outstanding over the financial period.

(3) Distributions were paid in cash or reinvested in additional units of the Fund.

(4) Distributions (if any) that may have been made that included return of capital in excess of short term earnings were made to minimize disruption and provide stability to investors who have elected to take their distributions in the form of cash, and as disclosed in the Simplified Prospectus. These amounts are reviewed at each calendar year-end and management engages in discussions with the sub-advisor to determine the most applicable strategy on a go forward basis and will take any action(s) as needed for the long term stability of the Fund.

(1) Management expense ratio is based on total expenses (excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs, as well as withholding taxes) for the stated period and is expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net asset value during the period.

(2) The trading expense ratio represents total commissions and other Fund transaction costs expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net asset value during the period.

(3) The portfolio turnover rate indicates how actively the Fund's sub-advisor manages its investment holdings. A portfolio turnover rate of 100% is equivalent to the Fund buying and selling all of the securities in its portfolio once in the course of the period. The higher the portfolio turnover rate in a period, the greater the trading costs payable by the Fund in the period, and the greater the chance of an investor receiving taxable capital gains in the period. There is not necessarily a relationship between a high turnover rate and the performance of a Fund.

(4) At the close of business on October 29, 2018, the Meritas Monthly Dividend and Income Fund was merged into the NEI Canadian Equity RS Fund. The portfolio turnover rates exclude the value of securities acquired and sold to realign the Fund's holdings.

Management Fees

The Manager is responsible for the management, supervision and administration of the Fund. The Manager receives from the Fund management fees, before HST, calculated daily on the net asset value of the Fund at an annual rate shown below. The Fund does not pay management fees for Series I and O units. Series I and O unitholders pay a negotiated fee directly to NEI Investments.

The management fee covers the cost of investment advisory fees, sales, marketing, and distribution expenses of the Fund. In addition, the Manager may pay a trailer fee to dealers out of this management fee. The trailer fee is a percentage of the average daily value of the units of the Fund held by the dealer's clients. No trailer fees are paid in respect of any Series F and PF units of the Fund.

The following table shows the major services paid for out of management fees as a percentage of the management fee for all applicable series of the Fund:

	Management Fee (%)	Investment Advisory and Other Fees (%)	Trailer Fee (%)
Series A	1.90	50.36	49.64
Series F	0.85	100.00	N/A
Series P	1.65	39.39	60.61
Series PF	0.65	100.00	N/A

Past Performance

The performance information provided will not necessarily indicate how the Fund will perform in the future. The information shown assumes that distributions made by the Fund in the periods shown were reinvested in additional units of the relevant series of the Fund. In addition, the information does not take into account sales, redemption, distribution or other optional charges that would have reduced returns or performance.

Year-by-Year Returns

The following charts show the annual performance for each series of units of the Fund for each period shown and illustrate how the Fund's performance has varied from period to period with the exception of 2022, which shows the six-month return for the period ended March 31, 2022. The charts indicate how much an investment made on the first day of each financial period would have grown or decreased by the last day of each financial period.
