NEWS RELEASE

Desjardins, provincial credit union centrals and CUMIS to merge the businesses of their subsidiaries, Credential, Qtrade and NEI, to create major Canadian wealth management firm

New combined company, Aviso Wealth, will focus on meeting the expanding wealth management needs of credit union members and other partners and clients across the country

TORONTO (ON), December 12, 2017 - Desjardins Group and a partnership comprised of Canada's five provincial credit union centrals (the Centrals) and The CUMIS Group have entered into a definitive agreement to merge the businesses of their subsidiaries, Credential Financial Inc., Qtrade Canada Inc. and NEI Investments. The transaction will create one of Canada's largest independent wealth management firms with more than 500,000 clients across the country and over $55 billion in combined client assets under administration and management.

The new entity, Aviso Wealth, will be jointly owned by Desjardins and a limited partnership comprised of the Centrals/CUMIS, with each holding a 50% stake. The Centrals represent approximately 300 credit unions across Canada. CUMIS is owned jointly by Co-operators Life Insurance Company and Central 1 Credit Union.

Aviso Wealth will be a Canadian financial services leader with notable strengths in wealth management, asset management, online brokerage and digital advice, mutual funds and correspondent services. Through its subsidiaries, Aviso Wealth will offer a wealth management platform with the necessary scale and resources to meet the evolving needs of its credit union partners and their members.

In addition, Aviso Wealth will continue to expand and evolve the products and services now provided by Credential, Qtrade and NEI to third party dealers, institutional and other partners and individual clients.

Leading this new organization as CEO will be Bill Packham, currently the CEO of Qtrade Canada Inc. The new organization will be national in scope, with its main offices in Toronto and Vancouver and regional offices across the country.

The three merging businesses are currently owned by one or a combination of the Aviso Wealth equity holders. Credential is owned jointly by the Centrals and CUMIS, Qtrade is owned by Desjardins, and NEI is owned jointly by Desjardins and the Centrals.

Guy Cormier, President and CEO of Desjardins Group, said, "Desjardins is a partner with Canada's credit unions and is proud to join forces with them and with CUMIS and its majority owner, The Co-operators, to create a major Canadian wealth management provider that will, in all aspects, offer credit union members and other clients a strong alternative to the banks and other wealth management companies. This is another great step forward in our pan-Canadian development and good news for our clients and members."

"The financial needs of Canadians are evolving, and we need to adapt to meet these needs while supporting the values of the cooperative sector," said Garth Manness, CEO of the Credit Union Central of Manitoba, on behalf of the five Centrals. "We know that our members make a conscious choice when investing with their credit union. Our goal is to ensure that choice gives them access to excellent investment planning and advice, lower management fees, and the products and services that best meet their needs.”

“This partnership reinforces CUMIS and The Co-operators commitment to meet the wealth management needs of Canadians through both our multi-channel distribution network and the credit union system,” said Rob Wesseling, President and CEO, The Co-operators. “We have long-standing, successful relationships with our credit union partners and we are looking forward to working with Desjardins. This transaction signals yet another way that we’re working together to better serve Canadians.”

“Each of the three combining companies is successful on its own, but the combined organization will be much stronger, with greater potential for growth, profitability and innovation than the existing companies could achieve on their own,” said Packham. “In today’s competitive financial landscape, building a coalition between credit unions and successful wealth partners has become more important than ever. Aviso Wealth will significantly enhance the credit union experience by providing members with an integrated range of innovative and competitively priced products and services.”

The transaction is expected to close in the first quarter of 2018, subject to approval from regulators and compliance with customary closing conditions.
